Red Resistance Stiffens As Allies Approach Border

THIS AIRVIEW of Shigatse, Tibet's second city, illustrates the kind of country into which Red China's armies are reported marching. Shigatse's population is about 9,000. Lhasa, Tibet's capital, has about 50,000 inhabitants. Highest nation in the world, Tibet averages 16,000 feet above sea level.

Ike Tagged For Top Job

Europe Defense Post Is Eyed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's announcement that he will visit Washington during this week-end's European defense meeting raised fresh reports today he will command the Atlantic Pact armed force.

Eisenhower's statement coincided with this afternoon's military committee discussion of the unified defense force and the power to be conferred on its supreme commander. The overall chief will be an Amercan.

Military spokesmen in the Pentagon believed that "Ike"—who [illegible] pay and subject to call when needed—probably will confer with Defense Secretary Marshall, his World War II chief, if the European command is to be discussed.

But both Marshall's office and that of Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reported that these officials had no appointments to see Eisenhower as yet.

* * *

EISENHOWER told reporters in Indianapolis that he was pleased to learn that he might be considered useful in the joint defense of Europe and that if the military leaders wanted him he would go "any place" they sent him.

Military sources said that his announcement sounded like a willingness to accept the European assignment. But they also were quick to point out that he could hardly say much else considering his status as a general of the Army still available for emergency use.

Eisenhower's announcement was expected to speed agreement on when and how to create the post of supreme commander.

Wilmington Man Admits Blast

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — The FBI today announced the arrest of Herman Floyd Kinner, 38, of Wilmington, Ohio, a former mental patient, for the dynamiting of the Voice Of America transmitters at Mason, Ohio, Sept. 17.

34 PCT. REJECTION HIT

Defense Says 4F List Can Be Slashed By UMT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — Defense officials estimated today draft rejections could be cut one-third by professional checkups and treatment such as would accompany Universal Military Training.

About that proportion of the turn-downs among draft registrants, they said, are for physical and dental defects that could be corrected.

President Truman told the National Guard Association yesterday that UMT would help eradicate the "disgrace" of a 34 percent draft rejection rate in World War II.

The rate is now much higher. Latest Army statistics covering last August show nearly 50 percent rejections for the following reasons:

20.1 percent for physical and dental reasons solely.

6.7 percent for combined physical and mental reasons.

17.6 percent for mental reasons solely. This means inability to pass an intelligence test.

3.2 percent for "neuro-psychiatric" reasons, including emotional instability and sex disorders. The armed forces do not knowingly accept homosexuals.

.9 percent for "administrative" reasons such as the discovery of a criminal record or falsification or mistakes in registering.

* * *

DEFENSE LEADERS said the rejections that most obviously could be avoided are those for dental reasons.

The draft requirement is for 16 sound teeth, but "suitable dentures or bridges" such as could be provided in clinics are accepted.

Officials said that many physical defects could be eliminated promptly if there were universal medical examinations to discover them and prescribe the proper treatment or surgery.

They said that civilians in many cases either do not know their physical defects or are inclined to put off the correction in a manner not permitted in the military services.

Reducing the large number of rejections for "IQ" reasons, officials said, would be much more difficult and probably could be accomplished only by making the tests easier.

At present the qualification tests are drawn up with the knowledge that about 12 percent of the population could not pass them.

Girl Is Listed Among Gang Held For Burglaries

A gang of eight persons—including one girl—suspected of stealing wire was being rounded up Thursday by Circleville police.

Police Chief William F. McCrady said that definite evidence has been obtained against the gang to link it with the theft of wire and possibly other local thefts.

The chief said the members of the gang range in age from 12 to 35 years old and at least one of them is a girl. He added that most of them live in or near Circleville.

The gang is suspected of stealing wire from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. substation on West Mound street and selling it to both Circleville and Columbus junkyards.

McCrady said he and Officer Turney Ross have discovered that 169 pounds of the copper wire has been sold in Circleville and that the "gang has been in operation at least since Oct. 13."

No formal accusations have been filed yet, he added.

Mother 'Spanks' Son In Court

Franklin Harris, 25, of Era was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in Pickaway County jail Wednesday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for destruction of property.

Harris was arested by Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards after Harris' mother complained he had demolished some furniture in her home.

Squire Root suspended $175 of the fine and 20 days of the 30-day sentence to place the man on probation. The affidavit was signed by the man's mother.

Government Orders Halt To Building Of Amusement, Entertainment Units

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — The government today banned construction of race tracks, bowling alleys and theaters to conserve building materials for the defense effort.

The National Production Authority issued an order, effective at midnight tonight, halting construction of amusement or entertainment facilities.

The NPA also acted to correct a serious freight car shortage. It directed steel producers to allocate 310,000 tons of steel monthly during the first quarter of 1951 to build 10,000 cars a month.

After issuance of the construction and freight car directives, NPA Administrator William H. Harrison met with representatives of the home appliance, radio and television industries to lay the groundwork for a cut-back in the production of these items.

The ban on recreational construction covers 44 specific types of buildings, including amusement parks, bandstands, race tracks, stadiums, theaters of all kinds, and assembly halls used primarily for recreation or amusement purposes.

The construction ban applies to new buildings and does not affect those already started.

Harrison also warned that anyone starting construction which is not on the prohibited list but which does not further the defense effort runs the risk of being unable to complete the building.

He said the prohibited construction is "of a type which does not further the defense effort either directly or indirectly and does not increase the nation's productive capacity."

In addition, the announcement said "it will be the policy of NPA to further limit or prohibit construction of additional types of projects which do not further the defense effort or increase the nation's productive capacity when such action is deemed necessary in the interest of national defense to minimize material shortages."

If such action becomes necessary, the NPA said, any construction commenced after 12 p m. tonight, may be halted even though its commencement at the present time is not forbidden by the government order.

In addition to exempting construction already underway, the new order permits repair or maintenance of existing buildings as well as a limited amount of alteration and modernization.

Exempted are small construction jobs not exceeding a cost of $5,000 for any consecutive 12-month period. Also exempted are construction projects by the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission.

Furthermore, the order permits restoration of any building after a "disaster, an act of God or an act of war."

One official estimated recently that civilian production may be cut 20 to 25 percent next year.

The NPA rapidly is moving into high gear in its efforts to harness the civilian economy to carry out a $30 billion rearmament program.

URGENT MATTERS CITED

President Says Congress To Get Early Call-Back

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—President Truman said today he probably will call Congress into session immediately after the elections to work on a new tax boost bill and other urgent legislation to cope with the world threat of Communism.

The chief executive told his news conference he does not expect war in Europe this Winter, but that Congress must swiftly enact legislation to raise an enormous amount of new revenue to pay for rearmament.

The President listed rent control as one of the urgent matters he will lay before the returning legislators.

Mr. Truman said he has discussed with Vice-President Alben Barkley and other congressional leaders the advisability of calling the Congress back into session before Nov. 27.

He said he has not arrived at a final decision, but will do so as soon as he has conferred further with the leaders of Congress.

The President said he will act the moment he makes his decision, whether this occurs before or after Nov. 7, Election Day.

* * *

HE SAID THAT Congress should get back to work as quickly as possible after the elections are over. He said that Congress needs more time to work on urgent legislation than it would have if it waited until Nov. 27 to return.

Mr. Truman underscored the urgency of the need for approval of a heavy excess profits tax to provide new revenues for the nation's vast program of rebuilding not only its armed forces but those of the North Atlantic Pact nations.

The President said he would have a whole list of legislation to place before Congress, including Hawaiian and Alaskan statehood. There also is the matter of extension of rent controls.

Indo-Chinese Reds Step Up War On French

SAIGON, Oct. 26—Communist-led Viet Minh rebels stepped up their pressure today against French and Viet Namese defense forces in the region of Laokay in Northern Indo-China.

The action in the direction of Laokay, 160 miles northwest of Hanoi, was especially heavy around Banthiet.

Viet Minh forces were said to be building rafts along the left bank of the Red river near Pholu, 18 miles southeast of Laokay, apparently in preparation for a crossing.

A French military spokesman said that a strong force of guerrillas derailed and then attacked a train at Mychanh, in the center of Viet Nam.

Gen. Alphonse-Pierre Juin declared, meanwhile, that French forces "are going to take the initiative."

YOUTH MAY BE FOUND 'SANE'

Mental Experts Believing Arsonist Segee's Story

Robert Dale Segee, the 21-year-old confessed mass murderer with fire and slayer by strangulation, has a story which is being believed by state mental experts.

Dr. Roy E. Bushong, superintendent of Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, told The Circleville Herald Thursday that "we are inclined to believe his (Segee's) confession."

Dr. Bushong, long recognized as one of the leading mental experts of the nation, emphasized, however, that his statement "is not to be construed as official."

He explained that he and his staff were ordered to examine Segee by the Pickaway County common pleas court and will make their report to that court only.

He said the report will be prepared for delivery to court officials in Circleville in "a week or so."

* * *

ASKED WHETHER he believed Segee's confession that he started the 1945 Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus fire in Hartford, Conn., which brought death to 168 persons, Dr. Bushong declared:

"As of now, we are inclined to believe his confession."

He stated, however, that "we have some more staff meetings scheduled on the matter before we make our report."

The doctor declined reply to questions as to whether preliminary examinations in Lima of Segee would indicate the youth's degree of sanity.

Dr. Bushong said he was "bound by duty" to make such a revelation only in his report to the Pickaway court.

It has been rumored that Lima psychiatrists and psychologists would report that Segee "is sane."

Advised of the reports, Dr. Bushong would say only that "they are premature."

He did say, however, that should his staff label Segee "sane" then the youth would not be returned to the hospital for further examinations.

Local spokesmen, back in July when Segee was ordered into the Lima institution, suggested that the youth would end up as "a human guinea pig for life."

If found sane, Segee would face a long string of criminal law cases stretching from New England to Connecticut to Ohio.

SOVIET OFFERS REJECTED

U.S. Presses Its Stand To Keep Lie As UN Chief

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 26—The United States today pressed her fight with Russia on keeping UN Secretary General Trygve Lie in his post by asking the General Assembly to grant a five-year extension of his term.

Warren Austin, chief American delegate and president of the Security Council, sent a letter to Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam notifying him of the 11-nation body's inability to agree on the selection of a secretary general for 1951.

Entezam agreed to call an assembly meeting either tomorrow or Monday.

Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik promptly countered the Austin move with another demand that the Security Council meet again to vote on a new unidentified candidate he has in mind. Last night, a closed session of the Security Councl rejected Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines and Charles Malik of Lebanon after their names were formally offered by the Russian.

In favor were Russia, India, China and Egypt. The other seven council members abstained, thus saving the United States the necessity of carrying out its announced intention of vetoing any candidate other than Lie.

* * *

THE U. S. SAID its decision was based on grounds of security. Austin said Russia wanted Lie dismissed because he fought against the Communist aggression in Korea and that yielding to the Soviet demand would set the precedent that any top UN official opposing Russian policies could expect severe punishment.

In the closed Security Council session, Malik broadened his charges against Lie. He said that Lie's attitude on Korea was only one link in a chain of behavior over the last two years objectionable to Russia because these actions of the secretary general represented UN charter violations.

Rok Aides Say Chinese Join Battle

New Landing Bolsters Allies

SEOUL, Oct. 27—(Friday)—South Korean troops reached the Manchurian Yalu river border Thursday evening in a thrust up the east flank of an Allied drive that met suddenly stiffened Red resistance elsewhere in Northwest Korea.

American field advisers reported an Rok (Republic of Korea) Sixth Division unit arrived on the Yalu's south bank above Chosan at 5:50 p. m. Thursday.

An earlier radio message from the Rok Sixth said another regiment of that division was surrounded three miles east of Onjong, 50 miles below Chosan, by what the South Korean report described as an estimated 5,000 Chinese Communist soldiers.

U. S. Eighth Army officials and staff members of America's Korean military advisory group adopted a skeptical attitude regarding South Korean reports that Chinese Red troops were fighting in Korea against United Nations forces.

On the peninsula's opposite side, meanwhile, 50,000 U. S. Marine, Army and Rok marine troops fanned out from the eastern port of Wonsan where they made an amphibious landing Thursday to bolster the offensive aimed at completing the occupation of North Korea.

* * *

ABOVE WONSAN, a South Korean column pushed up the east coast to within 155 miles of the Soviet Siberian border and 105 miles of Chongjin, last big North Korean industrial seaport still in Communist hands.

American officials in Seoul were checking with U. S. officers in the field for further information on South Korean assertions placing as many as 20,000 Chinese Red soldiers in North Korea.

Expressing skepticism regarding these reports, the officials disclosed that the Rok First, Sixth and Eighth Divisions as well as the British Commonwealth's 27th Brigade ran into stubborn resistance all along the Northwest Korean front Thursday.

"It was to be expected," said one American officer, "that the enemy would make a stand somewhere on his own territory and now he is in good defensive terrain."

The British Commonwealth forces, spearheading a drive up the west coast along which the U. S. 24th Infantry Division was moving up to join in the advance, bumped into Red resistance near Pakchon

Old Wild West Melodrama Is Being Repeated

SALIDA, Colo., Oct. 26—An Old West melodrama with a modern touch was having a real-life run in Salida today, with a sheriff's posse trailing three persons who tried to hold up a mail truck carrying "at least $30,000."

The chief clew was a "big black sedan," which reportedly bore a bullet hole in the rear window. The unidentified trio apparently was tipped off that the mail truck carried a large sum of money collected from big game hunting licenses.

The tradition of the stage coach holdup was followed to the letter across nearby Monarch Pass last night when three persons in a late model high-powered car crowded a mail truck off the road.

"Pull over! We've got a gun on you!" one of the car's passengers shouted.

Mailman C. J. Helmericks answered by pulling out his .45 caliber revolver. He fired three times. The would-be mail robbers answered with two shots as they sped away. Helmericks said he hit the car's rear window.

Demo Drive Sparked By Veep's Appearance In Ohio; Taft Raps 'Barefaced Lies;' Lausche Hits Rackets

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26 — The Democratic campaign reaches its climax in Ohio today and tomorrow with Vice-President Alben W. Barkley making a two-day slash from the northeast to the southwest corner of the state.

Accompanied by Governor Lausche and Senatorial Candidate Joseph T. Ferguson, the popular 72-year-old "Veep" will make addresses in Canton today, Akron tonight, Columbus tomorrow, and Cincinnati tomorrow evening.

On the Republican side, Sen. Robert A. Taft swings up to Youngstown after a tour of the coal fields of Belmont County, while State Treasurer Don H. Ebright, who hopes to take the governorship away from Lausche on Nov. 7, goes from Medina and Richland Counties into Cleveland.

A CIO local president, Charles Harn, 38, was hustled to the police station in Martins Ferry after he kicked up a disturbance at a Taft rally, but otherwise the senator was well-received in the coal area.

Harn insisted on making a speech of his own at the rally over the shouted objections of other listeners, and would have been ejected then except that Taft shouted that he should be permitted to finish. Harn ran into trouble, however, when, as he was leaving, he apparently tossed an unflattering remark at the police.

Taft probably failed to crack the voting ranks of the miners to any degree, but made seemingly-effective talks to the student bodies of Martins Ferry, Bellaire, Shadyside, Bridgeport and Belmont-Bethesda high schools. He declared that Ohio "has about the best school system in the United States."

In his statewide broadcast last night, Taft charged the CIO opposed him because he voted against its "socialistic program." He insisted that he had "a more affirmative, constructive record on legislation during my 12 years in Congress than almost any senator."

As to his votes in instances when the CIO charged he was against such items as soil conervation, school lunches and other welfare programs, Taft stated:

"They put me down against them whenever I vote for economy—for a little lower figure of two figures presented."

Taft insisted that charges he opposed public housing were "one of the most barefaced lies" and declared that the Taft-Hartley law is "the most constructive improvement in the whole labor field."

Ferguson, meanwhile, again challenged Taft to join with him in a request for a federal probe of senatorial campaign expenditures in Ohio. Speaking in East Liverpool, Ferguson said:

"If my opponent does not accept that challenge, I am going to ask for a separate investigating committee to come in here and check the money both sides are spending."

The state auditor warned his audience that "several million more dollars" will be brought into Ohio in the waning days of the campaign to reelect Taft.

Ferguson said he was proud of his labor backing, declaring that "I consider every working man in this state a better American than I do my opponent."

Lausche, who toured Eastern Ohio, again lit into racketeers as he addressed a gathering in Warren.

"The gangster is getting stronger and stronger," Lausche warned, "and unless you drive him out, he'll drive you out. He'll take over business and government."

Lausche recalled the raid last year on the Jungle Inn, near Warren, which he said he first tried to close "by persuasion" after liquor agents found 100 slot machines operating there. He continued:

"Unsuccessful, they called the sheriff, who didn't show up for three hours and then, instead of helping the officers, the sheriff began helping the operators."

In other addresses in Carroll and Belmont Counties, Lausche said that the workingman benefited more under his administration than in any other regime in the state's history, stressed new mine safety regulations, and cited increased state aid to schools.

Ebright took a crack at the "Veep's" trip into Ohio, insisting "Ohioans need no recommendations from outsiders" in making up their minds.

ASKED WHETHER he believed Segee's confession that he started the 1945 Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus fire in Hartford, Conn., which brought death to 168 persons, Dr. Bushong declared:

"As of now, we are inclined to believe his confession."

He stated, however, that "we have some more staff meetings scheduled on the matter before we make our report."

The doctor declined reply to questions as to whether preliminary examinations in Lima of Segee would indicate the youth's degree of sanity.

Dr. Bushong said he was "bound by duty" to make such a revelation only in his report to the Pickaway court.

It has been rumored that Lima psychiatrists and psychologists would report that Segee "is sane."

Advised of the reports, Dr. Bushong would say only that "they are premature."

He did say, however, that should his staff label Segee "sane" then the youth would not be returned to the hospital for further examinations.

Local spokesmen, back in July when Segee was ordered into the Lima institution, suggested that the youth would end up as "a human guinea pig for life."

If found sane, Segee would face a long string of criminal law cases stretching from New England to Connecticut to Ohio.

SOVIET OFFERS REJECTED

U.S. Presses Its Stand To Keep Lie As UN Chief

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 26—The United States today pressed her fight with Russia on keeping UN Secretary General Trygve Lie in his post by asking the General Assembly to grant a five-year extension of his term.

Warren Austin, chief American delegate and president of the Security Council, sent a letter to Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam notifying him of the 11-nation body's inability to agree on the selection of a secretary general for 1951.

Entezam agreed to call an assembly meeting either tomorrow or Monday.

Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik promptly countered the Austin move with another demand that the Security Council meet again to vote on a new unidentified candidate he has in mind. Last night, a closed session of the Security Councl rejected Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines and Charles Malik of Lebanon after their names were formally offered by the Russian.

In favor were Russia, India, China and Egypt. The other seven council members abstained, thus saving the United States the necessity of carrying out its announced intention of vetoing any candidate other than Lie.

• • •

THE U. S. SAID its decision was based on grounds of security. Austin said Russia wanted Lie dismissed because he fought against the Communist aggression in Korea and that yielding to the Soviet demand would set the precedent that any top UN official opposing Russian policies could expect severe punishment.

In the closed Security Council session, Malik broadened his charges against Lie. He said that Lie's attitude on Korea was only one link in a chain of behavior over the last two years objectionable to Russia because these actions of the secretary general represented UN charter violations.

Old Wild West Melodrama Is Being Repeated

SALIDA, Colo., Oct. 26—An Old West melodrama with a modern touch was having a real-life run in Salida today, with a sheriff's posse trailing three persons who tried to hold up a mail truck carrying "at least $30,000."

The chief clew was a "big black sedan," which reportedly bore a bullet hole in the rear window. The unidentified trio apparently was tipped off that the mail truck carried a large sum of money collected from big game hunting licenses.

The tradition of the stage coach holdup was followed to the letter across nearby Monarch Pass last night when three persons in a late model high-powered car crowded a mail truck off the road.

"Pull over! We've got a gun on you!" one of the car's passengers shouted.

Mailman C. J. Helmericks answered by pulling out his .45 caliber revolver. He fired three times. The would-be mail robbers answered with two shots as they sped away. Helmericks said he hit the car's rear window.

Demo Drive Sparked By Veep's Appearance In Ohio; Taft Raps 'Barefaced Lies;' Lausche Hits Rackets

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26 — The Democratic campaign reaches its climax in Ohio today and tomorrow with Vice-President Alben W. Barkley making a two-day slash from the northeast to the southwest corner of the state.

Accompanied by Governor Lausche and Senatorial Candidate Joseph T. Ferguson, the popular 72-year-old "Veep" will make addresses in Canton today, Akron tonight, Columbus tomorrow, and Cincinnati tomorrow evening.

On the Republican side, Sen. Robert A. Taft swings up to Youngstown after a tour of the coal fields of Belmont County, while State Treasurer Don H. Ebright, who hopes to take the governorship away from Lausche on Nov. 7, goes from Medina and Richland Counties into Cleveland.

A CIO local president, Charles Harn, 38, was hustled to the police station in Martins Ferry after he kicked up a disturbance at a Taft rally, but otherwise the senator was well-received in the coal area.

Harn insisted on making a speech of his own at the rally over the shouted objections of other listeners, and would have been ejected then except that Taft shouted that he should be permitted to finish. Harn ran into trouble, however, when, as he was leaving, he apparently tossed an unflattering remark at the police.

Taft probably failed to crack the voting ranks of the miners to any degree, but made seemingly-effective talks to the student bodies of Martins Ferry, Bellaire, Shadyside, Bridgeport and Belmont-Bethesda high schools. He declared that Ohio "has about the best school system in the United States."

In his statewide broadcast last night, Taft charged the CIO opposed him because he voted against its "socialistic program." He insisted that he had "a more affirmative, constructive record on legislation during my 12 years in Congress than almost any senator."

As to his votes in instances when the CIO charged he was against such items as soil conervation, school lunches and other welfare programs, Taft stated:

"They put me down against them whenever I vote for economy—for a little lower figure of two figures presented."

Taft insisted that charges he opposed public housing were "one of the most barefaced lies" and declared that the Taft-Hartley law is "the most constructive improvement in the whole labor field."

Ferguson, meanwhile, again challenged Taft to join with him in a request for a federal probe of senatorial campaign expenditures in Ohio. Speaking in East Liverpool, Ferguson said:

"If my opponent does not accept that challenge, I am going to ask for a separate investigating committee to come in here and check the money both sides are spending."

The state auditor warned his audience that "several million more dollars" will be brought into Ohio in the waning days of the campaign to reelect Taft.

Ferguson said he was proud of his labor backing, declaring that "I consider every working man in this state a better American than I do my opponent."

Lausche, who toured Eastern Ohio, again lit into racketeers as he addressed a gathering in Warren.

"The gangster is getting stronger and stronger," Lausche warned, "and unless you drive him out, he'll drive you out. He'll take over business and government."

Lausche recalled the raid last year on the Jungle Inn, near Warren, which he said he first tried to close "by persuasion" after liquor agents found 100 slot machines operating there. He continued:

"Unsuccessful, they called the sheriff, who didn't show up for three hours and then, instead of helping the officers, the sheriff began helping the operators."

In other addresses in Carroll and Belmont Counties, Lausche said that the workingman benefited more under his administration than in any other regime in the state's history, stressed new mine safety regulations, and cited increased state aid to schools.

Ebright took a crack at the "Veep's" trip into Ohio, insisting "Ohioans need no recommendations from outsiders" in making up their minds.

after crossing the Taeryong river.

The Rok First encountered strong opposition near Unsan, 20 miles northeast of Pakchon and nine miles southwest of Onjong where the Rok Sixth claimed it had met Chinese soldiers in battle.

The Rok Sixth's message, however, contained no indications of the type of uniform being worn by the soldiers the South Koreans identified as Chinese. American officers in Seoul said that in previous actions Allied troops had captured men wearing North Korean army uniforms who turned out to have been long-time Chinese residents of Korea.

There was some stiffening of North Korean resistance in the eastern sector also. Airmen reported heavy Red mortar fire had stalled Allied 10th Corps troops near Chori, 95 miles northeast of Wonsan.

Slots Possession To Be Pondered

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26 — The Ohio supreme court today agreed to decide if the mere possession of a slot machine violates state law.

The court admitted to review the appeal of the Paulding County prosecutor from an appellate court ruling reversing the conviction of Edward D. Shaffer, who was found guilty of exhibiting a "one-armed bandit" in his place of business. The intermediate court held that, since the deputies who made the arrest did not actually see the machine in play, the conviction was invalid.

His announcement followed a statement from Columbus that statewide sales for September, although still below 1949 levels, were only ten percent under the same month last year. August 1950 sales had been 18 percent below August 1949. Total sales for the state last month were $16,347,807.

Fines, Sentences Given Slingshot Shooting Crew

Four Pickaway County men were given stern reminders Wednesday that slingshot shooting can backfire.

They are Robert Kerns, 20, George Powers, 18, and Raymond Alkire, 19, all of Monroe Township and Richard McAbee, 19, of Wayne Township.

The quartet was arrested early Wednesday by county authorities after having demolished a double window in the Turney Owens home with a rock flipped by slingshot.

When arrested, the men were found to have a goodly supply of rocks for ammunition and four flips.

Each of the four men was fined $100 and costs Wednesday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root and each was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

The Squire suspended $75 from each of the men's fines, however, and also suspended the jail sentences to place the men on probation.

Terms of the probation imposed by the magistrate were: each man is to attend church at least once a month for six months, he is not to drink and no two of the boys are to "be caught together" for a half year.

The quartet was arrested on the Canal Road by Deputies Carl Radcliff and Walter Richards and Constable Harry Timmons after a complaint had been filed by Owens.

At Least 300 Visiting Elks Due For Parley

At least 300 visiting members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks are expected in Circleville over the weekend.

Dr. David Goldschmidt, local BPOE exalted ruler, said Circleville lodge would host the annual Fall conference of the south central district of Ohio Elkdom.

The Saturday-Sunday conference will be a combination business-social affair open to all Elks. The bulk of business affairs will be conducted by district committees.

Registration for the conference is scheduled for Saturday noon until 4 p. m. Open house is set for 6 p. m.

At 9 p. m., the local lodge will sponsor a dance for Elks and their ladies.

Leland Pontius, local lodge secretary, said that a formal district meeting will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday. At the same time, special entertainment for Elks' ladies will be provided.

A buffet dinner will be given at 6:30 p. m.

In past district conferences, attendance has ranged as high as 700 persons. However, on the eve of the Halloween season, local BPOE officials doubt that the coming parley will secure a record turnout.

Fines, Sentences Given Slingshot Shooting Crew

Four Pickaway County men were given stern reminders Wednesday that slingshot shooting can backfire.

They are Robert Kerns, 20, George Powers, 18, and Raymond Alkire, 19, all of Monroe Township and Richard McAbee, 19, of Wayne Township.

The quartet was arrested early Wednesday by county authorities after having demolished a double window in the Turney Owens home with a rock flipped by slingshot.

When arrested, the men were found to have a goodly supply of rocks for ammunition and four flips.

Each of the four men was fined $100 and costs Wednesday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root and each was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

The Squire suspended $75 from each of the men's fines, however, and also suspended the jail sentences to place the men on probation.

Terms of the probation imposed by the magistrate were: each man is to attend church at least once a month for six months, he is not to drink and no two of the boys are to "be caught together" for a half year.

The quartet was arrested on the Canal Road by Deputies Carl Radcliff and Walter Richards and Constable Harry Timmons after a complaint had been filed by Owens.

Man Near Orient Dies Of Burns

Virgil Mattox, 42, of Orient Route 2, died Wednesday in Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, of burns received last Saturday when a gasoline container exploded as he was refueling a combine.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday in the Rees Church of Christ in Christian Union with burial in Suncrest Memorial Park, Pt. Pleasant, W. Va.

Gas Company Sets Up Aids For Employes

The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. has announced a cash allowance and other benefits for employes entering the armed services.

In addition to the regular benefits established by custom and law, the gas company now gives a half month's pay, provides life insurance for 90 days, and continues hospital and surgical benefits free of cost for 30 months to all dependents of the men entering service.

Dan McClain, local manager, explained that "the cash allowance of a half month's pay is intended to aid the employee in transition from civilian to military life.

"The extenson of group life insurance will afford the employe sufficient time to take advantage of government insurance which is available at very low cost.

"Also it will be a great relief for the employe to know that his family will have the full benefit of the hospital and surgical treatment provided in the company's hospital plan without cost while he is away.

Killer Facing Life Sentence

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26—Oscar B. Ellis, 42-year-old Columbus man, is under a life prison term today for the second degree slaying of Edward James Becks, 28, also of Columbus.

Scientists Plan Study Of Alcohol

National Group Being Formed

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26—The newly-formed National Alcoholism Foundation has announced plans to establish an institute in the Los Angeles area to coordinate research into excessive drinking.

Drs. A. W. Pearson and John D. Moriarty, Los Angeles members of the board of trustees, said the projected center also will serve as a proving ground for application of scientific data.

Dr. Pearson said the foundation's research program will deal largely with laboratory and clinical studies of nutritional, biochemical, hormone and neuropsychiatric aspects of problem drinkers. He explained:

"We know that definite nutritional deficiencies often figure in the cause of alcoholism and invariaby result from it. Far too little work is being done in this field andin the influences of the endocrine glands on the disease."

• • •

PLANS ALSO call for the training of technicians in procedures involved in laboratory tests essential in proper treatment of patients.

The doctors said acth, one of the so-called "wonder drugs," is a drug of promise among several glandular products needing thorough study. They said the body's combustion of alcohol is improved by acth, which also heightens both physical and emotional ability to withstand stress.

Drs. Pearson and Moriarty, who have pioneered in clinical trials of the Danish drug antabus and in investigation of carbon dioxide therapy for nervous tension in alcoholism, emphasized the foundation is in no way connected with any prohibition and reform movement. It will be supported by gifts and grants.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26—William L. Weber, one of two Zanesville attorneys, convicted on charges of aiding perjury in the "divorce mill" cases in Columbus, is free today from probation.

Franklin County Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett said that Judge Chester W. Pendleton of Hancock County, the jurist assigned to hear the trials of Weber and Thomas A. Joseph, had been petitioned by Zanesville residents who agreed that Weber had set a "good record" since his trial. Weber was placed on three years' probation last December.

FOR SNOW SHOVELERS

FOR ALL members of Snow Shovelers International the man they've been looking for to head the ticket may be Frederick W. Crane, public works commissioner of Buffalo, N. Y. True, Mr. Crane was speaking of snow removal in a big way, mountain passes, highways and streets rather than pavements.

But the program of radiant heating that he espoused is enough to set amateur snow shovelers dreaming of the day when cleaning the walk and the pavement will consist of nothing more violent than pushing a button or turning a tap.

Oregon, for example, smuggles wrought iron pipes among the concrete on one of its vital arteries over a mountain. Water from a natural hot well is pumped into the pipes, the roadway heats up and, presto! Snow and ice vanish. Or, says the estimable Mr. Crane, you can do it with electricity.

Of course not all homespun shovelers can tap a natural well, no matter how nice they'd be to have around the house. Electrical and other forms of underground heat may also be hard to come by. Yet the prospect opened by Mr. Crane and associate benefactors seems to father, looking at the almanac for blizzards, to be just about the best thing to come along in labor-saving devices since Junior got old enough to mow and rake the lawn.

600,000 UNFORTUNATES

THE declaration by the National Institute of Mental Health that state hospitals are becoming increasingly overcrowded should not lead to the sad conclusion that a larger percentage of Americans are mentally sick. To be sure, the 600,000 persons in these institutions represent a sizeable bloc. But what must also be considered is the fact that the nation's population is steadily growing and that there is a more general recognition than there formerly was of the value of hospital care in cases of even minor mental disease.

For an identical reason surprise should not be caused by the announcement that New York state has five and a half mental patients per thousand of population, as compared with a national average of three per thousand. It may be true, of course, that life and work in big cities contribute to mental instability. It is also true, however, that New York possesses far greater hospital facilities than any other state and is more generous than most in making them available to those who need them.

Tom Dewey, who attempted to name the next GOP candidate for President several days ago, now finds it necessary to devote his entire time to the gubernatorial campaign in New York.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The new Israeli government adopted the Continental European parliamentary system, which, in practice, means that a minority party can be in control of the state by combining with other parties. When the combination falls apart, the administration, lacking a majority in parliament (Knesset) has to give way.

This system in Israel is complicated by the use of proportional representation. In the 1949 general election in that country, 21 parties appeared, only 12 of which obtained seats. The largest of these parties, the Labor Party (Mapai), is headed by David Ben-Gurion, a Socialist, who became prime minister. His party represented 35 percent of the total vote cast. As this was not sufficient, he formed a bloc with the united religious parties (a combination of Orthodix elements.).

This combination was unsound: The Socialists devote themselves to a secular way of life; the Orthodox Jews pursue the traditional course of a theocratic concept of Jewish life, many thousands of years old.

Their point of union was, of course, that both groups desired to make sacrifices to achieve the success of the project. The Socialists, led by Ben-Gurion, like the Socialists in Great Britain, based their program on American aid, while opposing the American system of private enterprise.

In this they succeeded because of the enormous contribution to Palestinian activities by American Jews out of their private resources. However, doles are not a substitue for private enterprise and the situation has been complicated by the unabsorbable immigration of European, Asiatic and North African Jews, for whom adequate world could not be made under Socialism.

One of the difficulties in this situation is the lack of a constitution, arising out of the impossibility of writing one that would satisfy all the elements in the country. The Orthodox Jews wish to have a constitutional provision establishing the Mosaic law, enforcing the traditional Sabbath and the dietary laws.

This is, in a measure, complicated by existing law, continuing from the Turkish possession of the country and the British mandate. Under this system, the eccelesiastical authorities exercise functions (marriage, divorce, etc.) to which European Jews are not accustomed, particularly those who originated in countries which are now behind the Iron Curtain. A conflict of divergencies occurs here that is inherent in 2,000 years of Jewish history. A Polish Jew and a Yemenite, for instance, are centuries apart in development.

Edward A. Norman, who is devoted to Israel, says:

"In March 1950, however, Prime Minister Ben-Gurion declared he had come to the conclusion that a constitution was not an essential of Democracy. In the United States, he said, the Constitution had been an obstruction to social progress."

This is a characteristic response of a Continental European Socialist who does not understand the American constitutional system and who cannot believe that we have, in this country, made greater social progress, without Socialism, than any country in Europe has made with Socialism. Ben-Gurion originated in Poland.

LOOK OUT for LIZA

By FAITH BALDWIN

Copyright, 1950, by Faith Baldwin Cuthrell
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

SYNOPSIS

Liza Lennox, widowed at 26, had been left very secure financially by her late husband, George, and now in his New England ancestral home she endeavors to make plans for her future. Though George Lennox had been twice Liza's age when they married, she had adored him, still worshipped his memory, felt now his spirit watching over her, protectively, for George Lennox had appointed his three most trustworthy friends, Dr. Fleming, Hiram Mason, banker, and Michael Lennox, writer and world traveler, as trustees to "look out for Liza." With Spring breaking over the New England countryside, Liza tells her sister-in-law, Abby, of the glories of her marriage, but points out, practically, that now she must find a new way of life, on her own. Cautioned by Abby to beware the "wolves" and fortune hunters, Liza journeys to New York where she will meet for the first time with her trustees. Quartered in a lovely New York hotel suite, Liza feels loneliness, nostalgia and a sense of adventure tugging at her heart.

CHAPTER SIX

IT OCCURRED to Liza that she had never before stayed, alone, in a hotel. She and her mother had not been able to travel. Later George was with her, and after that the girls or Abby.

She looked at her traveling clock, and remembered that she had promised to call Abby, put the call through and wandered about the bedroom looking at the array of perfumes and crystal bottles and silver-topped jars in the dressing case, open on the dressing table. With how many evidences of love she was continually surrounded, she thought, and the tears were bright in her eyes.

The telephone rang.

"I've been fretting and waiting ... Are you all right, was the trip pleasant?" Abby said.

"Very. I read, had a cup of tea, and dozed in my chair."

"This place is a barn without you. It's colder than Greenland, out. How is it there?"

"Raw, I suppose," said Liza, "but the rooms are well heated."

"Your reservation was ready?"

"Oh, yes, Abby."

"One never knows these days," said Abby. "Even with the war over you hear appalling stories of people sitting in lobbies. What are you doing, Liza?"

"Nothing. I've unpacked. I'm going to order dinner upstairs."

"Go downstairs," suggested Abby. "They'll have music and there will be people."

"No one I know," said Liza. "I'd hate it. No, I'll stay here and go to bed early and tomorrow I'll call Mr. Elsmen and find out about real estate agents and start looking for a place. I'll take my time ..."

"Probably you'll have to," said Abby glumly.

"Dear Abby ..."

"I forgot; there are wires from Mary Alice and Virginia. I didn't send them on, knowing you'd phone."

"What do they say?"

"Just what you said they would."

Liza laughed. "I'll wire them tonight and give them the address," she promised.

"Liza, if you grow too lonely, come home. Perhaps, later in the spring, if and when you are settled, I'll come see you. I can't help worrying—you need someone to look out for you."

"I'll be all right," said Liza.

When they had finished talking she had a shower, brushed her hair, fixed her face and put on a tea gown, frivolous and charming. Then she sent for a menu and took her time ordering dinner: dry sherry, a clear soup, breast of chicken, asparagus Hollandaise, green salad, cheese, crackers and coffee. When the dinner was wheeled in, she laid aside her book and forced herself to eat, slowly.

It still seemed very early when the table had been removed and Liza wandered to the windows and stood there looking at the lights in the shadows of the park. She had a wild notion that tomorrow she would repack and take the first train back to Abby and the old house, remaining to watch spring creep with green feet along the hills, to watch the leaves unfold and the small flowers bloom, under the wet protection of the leaf mold in the woods.

No.

Retreat was not escape and after a few weeks she would become restless or bored again as recently she had been, concealing it; both restless and bored. She remembered the autumn, wonderful with color, and winter, white, frosty, the brooks locked in ice. She had crawled into semi-isolation, thankfully, for it was healing. She had accepted Abby's sturdy, comforting presence, the arms of the old house had closed about her. Long days, longer nights, and the slow adjustment. Now that was over, having served its purpose. She would always be grateful for it. But you couldn't return, once you'd moved on. If she went back, when she went back, she must be a different person.

She took her time about getting ready for bed, making a ritual of creaming, stroking, and sponging off the cream. She brushed her hair and braided it; she said her prayers.

When the lights were out and the April wind came into the room, she lay and listened to the distant, blurred noises of the street, the gasping of the brakes on the buses, the whistle of doormen, the arrogant taxi horns. This was a quiet floor and she heard no one in the corridors. Only the remote sounds of a city not yet ready for bed; if it was ever ready. A very big city —when you were alone in it.

It was her city; here she had been born; here she had lived and here she had returned with George, to visit. He had shown it to her, as she had not known it, shown her places of which she had read but never seen. He had introduced her to his New York, and it had welcomed her. It was different now, alone.

Tomorrow, said Liza to herself, I'll do something about that.

During the night it turned warm, and the morning was clear and fine, with a rising temperature. Liza ate her breakfast and listened to her radio. The day would continue clear, said the pontifical commentator, and unusually warm until evening.

She dressed, wearing a suit and a short fur jacket, and went out to walk on Madison Avenue, looking in the shop windows, for an hour, and making friends with innumerable leashed dogs, and then returned to the hotel, went upstairs, and telephoned George's lawyer, Martin Elsmen. He was delighted to hear from her. She must dine with them. Mrs. Elsmen would call her, very soon. What could he do for her?

She said she wished to look for an apartment, and Mr. Elsmen groaned. Yes, he could give her the name of a good agent, he said, and he hoped it would do her some good.

Liza hoped so too, sitting in the agency office and talking with a brisk, competent woman who made notes. Yes, she quite understood. She was sure something could be found. Was Mrs. Lennox interested in a co-operative? No. In a long lease then?

Liza said, "A year at least."

"I see. A sublease, furnished?"

"No, I shall furnish it myself. Redecorate, if necessary."

The agent asked, "Would you be interested in a small penthouse with a terrace?"

Liza said she wouldn't know until she had seen it.

"Well," said the agent, who was our Miss Burns, "shall we start ... now?"

They started, lunching in a small place uptown, and then began the rounds, Miss Burns consulting her list. Liza was denfiite in her requirements. A large living room; two bedrooms and baths; a dining room, servants quarters. And she preferred to be high and on the East Side.

Miss Burns, who had done a little checking after Liza's telephone call, concluded, and rightly, that rental price was no object and soon learned that Liza intended to receive full value for whatever she paid. Miss Burns looked at her with considerable respect. Mr. Elsmen had called her before Liza did. "Mrs. Lennox," he said, "is a very valuable client." He added that she was a young widow, "retiring and unused to the conduct of her affairs." He trusted that Miss Burns would help her.

Good Bet: Men 26 and Over Safe Unless Big War Opens | Expect: A Real Tightening Of Rejections, Deferments

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—It's a good bet that men 26 and over won't be drafted unless the United States becomes involved in an all-out war. Look out for a tightening of rejections and deferments under the present 19-to-25 draft law.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, is strongly opposed to drafting the older men. He said recently that a draft of men over 26 would cripple industrial production and scientific development.

General Hershey

Congress probably will go along with Hershey's recommendations when it considers any revision of the Selective Service law. His long experience as draft chief gives him strong prestige on Capitol Hill.

Hershey admits the three-million-man armed forces planned by President Truman can't be achieved under present draft regulations, but he does believe the goal can be reached by cutting down on rejections and deferments.

The Selective Service boss says we have a choice of either reducing the number of rejections and deferments or of drafting veterans and men in the 19-25 bracket who have dependents.

Hershey long has felt the armed forces are too rigid in their standards for acceptance of men and he may persuade Congress to put pressure on the military leaders to stop rejecting so many present draftees.

● POLITICAL HEADACHE—Campaign strategists say that Senator Eugene D. Millikin (R), Colorado, affable GOP leader on tax legislation, had his election hazards dangerously raised with the sudden death of former Governor Ralph L. Carr of Colorado.

Millikin's friends note that the senator had been counting on Carr's popularity as a gubernatorial candidate to pull him through his tough fight against Rep. John A. Carroll (D), Colorado.

Added to Millikin's problems was the endorsement of Carroll by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D), Colorado. Republicans had hoped fervently that Johnson, as Millikin's colleague in the Senate, would remain silent.

Now the GOP senator must now take his chances of running with the substitute candidate for governor picked at the last minute to replace Carr.

● SPY HUNT TIGHTENED—The military is screening aircraft plant employes very carefully in its battle against espionage and sabotage.

The tightening up is making it tough on plane builders who are finding it proportionately more difficult to find skilled labor.

In other industries, even some war production industries, the situation would not be the puzzler it is in aircraft because poor security risks could be put on unclassified work.

But in the warplane industry there is scarcely a department where some restricted material is not handled.

Most of the poor security risks are new hires but recently one west coast bomber plant was forced to dismiss a skilled tool maker who had been working for the company for 10 years.

● AMUSEMENT FOR SENATORS—Senators are still chuckling over an incident in the closing days of the last session when Vice President Alben Barkley caused a situation he had protected against.

Tables Are Turned On Barkley

Senatorial tempers were at a low boiling point and the sessions in the little old Supreme Court room, necessary during construction work on the regular chamber, didn't help.

Barkley and other presiding officers used the gavel frequently and angrily to quiet their colleagues. On one occasion Barkley banged the gavel and declared loudly, "The Senate will be in order." He added softly, "The chair hopes."

On another occasion, a roar of laughter went up in the vestibule just outside the room. Senator John C. Stennis (D), Mississippi, a stern disciplinarian in the chair, ordered the vestibule cleared.

Stennis hadn't thought it out. Only a story by the nation's best-known raconteur could have produced such a burst of merriment. Barkley emerged from the vestibule while his audience went away chuckling. Stennis and Barkley both looked sheepish.

FOR SNOW SHOVELERS

FOR ALL members of Snow Shovelers International the man they've been looking for to head the ticket may be Frederick W. Crane, public works commissioner of Buffalo, N. Y. True, Mr. Crane was speaking of snow removal in a big way, mountain passes, highways and streets rather than pavements.

But the program of radiant heating that he espoused is enough to set amateur snow shovelers dreaming of the day when cleaning the walk and the pavement will consist of nothing more violent than pushing a button or turning a tap.

Oregon, for example, smuggles wrought iron pipes among the concrete on one of its vital arteries over a mountain. Water from a natural hot well is pumped into the pipes, the roadway heats up and, presto! Snow and ice vanish. Or, says the estimable Mr. Crane, you can do it with electricity.

Of course not all homespun shovelers can tap a natural well, no matter how nice they'd be to have around the house. Electrical and other forms of underground heat may also be hard to come by. Yet the prospect opened by Mr. Crane and associate benefactors seems to father, looking at the almanac for blizzards, to be just about the best thing to come along in labor-saving devices since Junior got old enough to mow and rake the lawn.

600,000 UNFORTUNATES

THE declaration by the National Institute of Mental Health that state hospitals are becoming increasingly overcrowded should not lead to the sad conclusion that a larger percentage of Americans are mentally sick. To be sure, the 600,000 persons in these institutions represent a sizeable bloc. But what must also be considered is the fact that the nation's population is steadily growing and that there is a more general recognition than there formerly was of the value of hospital care in cases of even minor mental disease.

For an identical reason surprise should not be caused by the announcement that New York state has five and a half mental patients per thousand of population, as compared with a national average of three per thousand. It may be true, of course, that life and work in big cities contribute to mental instability. It is also true, however, that New York possesses far greater hospital facilities than any other state and is more generous than most in making them available to those who need them.

Tom Dewey, who attempted to name the next GOP candidate for President several days ago, now finds it necessary to devote his entire time to the gubernatorial campaign in New York.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The new Israeli government adopted the Continental European parliamentary system, which, in practice, means that a minority party can be in control of the state by combining with other parties. When the combination falls apart, the administration, lacking a majority in parliament (Knesset) has to give way.

This system in Israel is complicated by the use of proportional representation. In the 1949 general election in that country, 21 parties appeared, only 12 of which obtained seats. The largest of these parties, the Labor Party (Mapai), is headed by David Ben-Gurion, a Socialist, who became prime minister. His party represented 35 percent of the total vote cast. As this was not sufficient, he formed a bloc with the united religious parties (a combination of Orthodix elements.).

This combination was unsound: The Socialists devote themselves to a secular way of life; the Orthodox Jews pursue the traditional course of a theocratic concept of Jewish life, many thousands of years old.

Their point of union was, of course, that both groups desired to make sacrifices to achieve the success of the project. The Socialists, led by Ben-Gurion, like the Socialists in Great Britain, based their program on American aid, while opposing the American system of private enterprise.

In this they succeeded because of the enormous contribution to Palestinian activities by American Jews out of their private resources. However, doles are not a substitue for private enterprise and the situation has been complicated by the unabsorbable immigration of European, Asiatic and North African Jews, for whom adequate world could not be made under Socialism.

One of the difficulties in this situation is the lack of a constitution, arising out of the impossibility of writing one that would satisfy all the elements in the country. The Orthodox Jews wish to have a constitutional provision establishing the Mosaic law, enforcing the traditional Sabbath and the dietary laws.

This is, in a measure, complicated by existing law, continuing from the Turkish possession of the country and the British mandate. Under this system, the eccelesiastical authorities exercise functions (marriage, divorce, etc.) to which European Jews are not accustomed, particularly those who originated in countries which are now behind the Iron Curtain. A conflict of divergencies occurs here that is inherent in 2,000 years of Jewish history. A Polish Jew and a Yemenite, for instance, are centuries apart in development.

Edward A. Norman, who is devoted to Israel, says:

"In March 1950, however, Prime Minister Ben-Gurion declared he had come to the conclusion that a constitution was not an essential of Democracy. In the United States, he said, the Constitution had been an obstruction to social progress."

This is a characteristic response of a Continental European Socialist who does not understand the American constitutional system and who cannot believe that we have, in this country, made greater social progress, without Socialism, than any country in Europe has made with Socialism. Ben-Gurion originated in Poland.

LOOK OUT for LIZA

By FAITH BALDWIN

Copyright, 1950, by Faith Baldwin Cuthrell

SYNOPSIS

Liza Lennox, widowed at 26, had been left very secure financially by her late husband, George, and now in his New England ancestral home she endeavors to make plans for her future. Though George Lennox had been twice Liza's age when they married, she had adored him, still worshipped his memory, felt now his spirit watching over her, protectively, for George Lennox had appointed his three most trustworthy friends, Dr. Fleming, Hiram Mason, banker, and Michael Lennox, writer and world traveler, as trustees to "look out for Liza." With Spring breaking over the New England countryside, Liza tells her sister-in-law, Abby, of the glories of her marriage, but points out, practically, that now she must find a new way of life, on her own. Cautioned by Abby to beware the "wolves" and fortune hunters, Liza journeys to New York where she will meet for the first time with her trustees. Quartered in a lovely New York hotel suite, Liza feels loneliness, nostalgia and a sense of adventure tugging at her heart.

CHAPTER SIX

IT OCCURRED to Liza that she had never before stayed, alone, in a hotel. She and her mother had not been able to travel. Later George was with her, and after that the girls or Abby.

She looked at her traveling clock, and remembered that she had promised to call Abby, put the call through and wandered about the bedroom looking at the array of perfumes and crystal bottles and silver-topped jars in the dressing case, open on the dressing table. With how many evidences of love she was continually surrounded, she thought, and the tears were bright in her eyes.

The telephone rang.

"I've been fretting and waiting ... Are you all right, was the trip pleasant?" Abby said.

"Very. I read, had a cup of tea, and dozed in my chair."

"This place is a barn without you. It's colder than Greenland, out. How is it there?"

"Raw, I suppose," said Liza, "but the rooms are well heated."

"Your reservation was ready?"

"Oh, yes, Abby."

"One never knows these days," said Abby. "Even with the war over you hear appalling stories of people sitting in lobbies. What are you doing, Liza?"

"Nothing. I've unpacked. I'm going to order dinner upstairs."

"Go downstairs," suggested Abby. "They'll have music and there will be people."

"No one I know," said Liza. "I'd hate it. No, I'll stay here and go to bed early and tomorrow I'll call Mr. Elsmen and find out about real estate agents and start looking for a place. I'll take my time..."

"Probably you'll have to," said Abby glumly.

"Dear Abby..."

"I forgot; there are wires from Mary Alice and Virginia. I didn't send them on, knowing you'd phone."

"What do they say?"

"Just what you said they would."

Liza laughed. "I'll wire them tonight and give them the address," she promised.

"Liza, if you grow too lonely, come home. Perhaps, later in the spring, if and when you are settled, I'll come see you. I can't help worrying—you need someone to look out for you."

"I'll be all right," said Liza.

When they had finished talking she had a shower, brushed her hair, fixed her face and put on a tea gown, frivolous and charming. Then she sent for a menu and took her time ordering dinner: dry sherry, a clear soup, breast of chicken, asparagus Hollandaise, green salad, cheese, crackers and coffee. When the dinner was wheeled in, she laid aside her book and forced herself to eat, slowly.

It still seemed very early when the table had been removed and Liza wandered to the windows and stood there looking at the lights in the shadows of the park. She had a wild notion that tomorrow she would repack and take the first train back to Abby and the old house, remaining to watch spring creep with green feet along the hills, to watch the leaves unfold and the small flowers bloom, under the wet protection of the leaf mold in the woods.

No.

Retreat was not escape and after a few weeks she would become restless or bored again as recently she had been, concealing it; both restless and bored. She remembered the autumn, wonderful with color, and winter, white, frosty, the brooks locked in ice. She had crawled into semi-isolation, thankfully, for it was healing. She had accepted Abby's sturdy, comforting presence, the arms of the old house had closed about her. Long days, longer nights, and the slow adjustment. Now that was over, having served its purpose. She would always be grateful for it. But you couldn't return, once you'd moved on. If she went back, when she went back, she must be a different person.

She took her time about getting ready for bed, making a ritual of creaming, stroking, and sponging off the cream. She brushed her hair and braided it; she said her prayers.

When the lights were out and the April wind came into the room, she lay and listened to the distant, blurred noises of the street, the gasping of the brakes on the buses, the whistle of doormen, the arrogant taxi horns. This was a quiet floor and she heard no one in the corridors. Only the remote sounds of a city not yet ready for bed; if it was ever ready. A very big city—when you were alone in it.

It was her city; here she had been born; here she had lived and here she had returned with George, to visit. He had shown it to her, as she had not known it, shown her places of which she had read but never seen. He had introduced her to his New York, and it had welcomed her. It was different now, alone.

Tomorrow, said Liza to herself, I'll do something about that.

During the night it turned warm, and the morning was clear and fine, with a rising temperature. Liza ate her breakfast and listened to her radio. The day would continue clear, said the pontifical commentator, and unusually warm until evening.

She dressed, wearing a suit and a short fur jacket, and went out to walk on Madison Avenue, looking in the shop windows, for an hour, and making friends with innumerable leashed dogs, and then returned to the hotel, went upstairs, and telephoned George's lawyer, Martin Elsmen. He was delighted to hear from her. She must dine with them. Mrs. Elsmen would call her, very soon. What could he do for her?

She said she wished to look for an apartment, and Mr. Elsmen groaned. Yes, he could give her the name of a good agent, he said, and he hoped it would do her some good.

Liza hoped so too, sitting in the agency office and talking with a brisk, competent woman who made notes. Yes, she quite understood. She was sure something could be found. Was Mrs. Lennox interested in a co-operative? No. In a long lease then?

Liza said, "A year at least."

"I see. A sublease, furnished?"

"No, I shall furnish it myself. Redecorate, if necessary."

The agent asked, "Would you be interested in a small penthouse with a terrace?"

Liza said she wouldn't know until she had seen it.

In other industries, even some war production industries, the situation would not be the puzzler it is in aircraft because poor security risks could be put on unclassified work.

But in the warplane industry there is scarcely a department where some restricted material is not handled.

Most of the poor security risks are new hires but recently one west coast bomber plant was forced to dismiss a skilled tool maker who had been working for the company for 10 years.

● AMUSEMENT FOR SENATORS—Senators are still chuckling over an incident in the closing days of the last session when Vice President Alben Barkley caused a situation he had protected against.

Tables Are Turned On Barkley

Senatorial tempers were at a low boiling point and the sessions in the little old Supreme Court room, necessary during construction work on the regular chamber, didn't help.

Barkley and other presiding officers used the gavel frequently and angrily to quiet their colleagues. On one occasion Barkley banged the gavel and declared loudly, "The Senate will be in order." He added softly, "The chair hopes."

On another occasion, a roar of laughter went up in the vestibule just outside the room. Senator John C. Stennis (D), Mississippi, a stern disciplinarian in the chair, ordered the vestibule cleared.

Stennis hadn't thought it out. Only a story by the nation's best-known raconteur could have produced such a burst of merriment. Barkley emerged from the vestibule while his audience went away chuckling. Stennis and Barkley both looked sheepish.

Halloween Time Means Parties; City, County Affairs Are Numerous

Barn Scene For Session

Halloween time is party time. Grownups and youngsters, city and county folks are giving Halloween affairs this week.

One of the most unique Halloween parties was given by Harper Bible Class Wednesday night in the James Pierce barn on Circleville Route 4.

As guests turned in the Pierce lane car lights played on the master ghost who later seated guests on "tombstones" of hay in the barn "graveyard." The barn was also decorated with pumpkin faces, cornshocks and lighted with orange bulbs. "Black cats and skeletons" dangled from the rafters.

A fortune-telling booth took up one corner. Lewis Cook, as "Madam Zola," read fortunes, Mrs. Alvin Perdion told a ghost story, "House of Nightmares."

Before Halloween games, which featured the program, costumes were judged by Mrs. Lewis Cook, Mrs. James Pierce and Mrs. Nelson Reid.

Mrs. Robert Dick was awarded the prize for the prettiest costume. Ralph Bennington's costume was chosen ugliest. Winning couple were Hillis Hall and Mrs. Ray Johnson and Mike Kirkpatrick won on best impersonation.

Responsible for party arrangements were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Perdion.

When mothers of Child Conservation League entertained at a Halloween party for children of members, 35 youngsters arrived in costume. The party took place Tuesday evening in the social room of Presbyterian church with 24 mothers assisting in festivities.

Mrs. Donald Mtchell and Mrs. George W. VanCamp were judges of the costumes. They awarded a prize to Paula Denham for the prettiest costume and one to Geoffrey Denham for the ugliest. Geoffrey and Randy Smith received an award for unusual costume.

After masqueraders unmasked, Halloween games were played including a broomstick relay, a musical pumpkin hunt, apples on a string contest and a corn hunt.

Refreshments were in keeping with Halloween traditions.

In charge of the party were Mrs. William Weldon, Mrs. Robert Hedges, Mrs. William Heffner and Mrs. Charles Schneider.

Musical numbers were provided by Mary Ann Defenbaugh, who played a piano solo, and by the Luckhart trio, composed of Wayne, Max and David Luckhart.

Sketches Of Major Candidates

Lt.-Governor Post Little Known

Editor's Note: The following is the third in a series of articles outlinging the biographies of the state ticket candidates seeking election Nov. 7. Today, the candidates for lieutenant governor.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26—The forgotten man of state government is probably the lieutenant governor.

Few people on the streets even know who he may be. Nonetheless, he's a pretty important man to have around the statehouse. As is said frequently, only a heart-beat—that of the governor—lies between him and the chief executive's chair.

But the lieutenant governor has more to do in his parttime job than to sit around and wait for the governor to die so he can take over. Despite his lack of prominence, he's a pretty big wheel in his own right, particularly when the legislature which makes our laws is in session.

* * *

FOR THE lieutenant governor is the presiding officer of the Ohio senate, although he has the power to vote only to break a tie. His fairness, his honesty, his ability and his knowledge of parliamentary procedure are put to the acid test frequently. .

Under an able lieutenant governor, the senate functions smoothly; under a confused or incompetent one the law-making machinery would falter miserably if it did not break down altogether.

For this important and thankless post, Ohio voters on Nov. 7 will have their choice between Democrat George D. Nye of Waverly, the incumbent, and Republican J. Eugene Roberts of Hubbard.

Here are brief biographies of the two men:

George D. Nye, 50, of Waverly, is a lawyer and former judge who is a native of his own Pike County, where the Democrats take their politics seriously. In fact, Pike County has never, in recent history, failed to go Democratic in a statewide election.

Nye, who is head of that potent political machine, is seeking a third term as lieutenant governor. He was first elected in 1944, to serve then, as now, with Governor Lausche. Like Lausche, he lost in 1946, but won reelection in 1948.

Educated in Pike County schools and Ohio State university, he obtained his law degree and in 1922 was elected prosecuting attorney, being reelected in 1924. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in 1928, two years later was elected to the common pleas bench for a short term, and was reelected to a full term in 1932. He resigned as judge in 1937 to resume private practice.

Nye was a delegate to several Democratic national conventions and is a member of the state central committee of his party. He is married and has one daughter.

J. Eugene Roberts, 57, of Hubbard, Trumbull County, is a former state senator and has practiced law in Youngstown and Warren for 30 years.

* * *

BORN IN HUBBARD and educated in public schools, he taught school and worked in the steel mills to further his higher education. He holds degrees from Youngstown college and Kent State university.

A veteran of World War I, he served three two-year terms in the state senate, from 1925 to 1929 and again in 1933-34. He was his party's whip during one term. He has been an unsuccessful candidate for attorney general in 1928 and also for congress-at-large. He is married, has no children.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

Sketches Of Major Candidates

Lt.-Governor Post Little Known

Editor's Note: The following is the third in a series of articles outlinging the biographies of the state ticket candidates seeking election Nov. 7. Today, the candidates for lieutenant governor.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26—The forgotten man of state government is probably the lieutenant governor.

Few people on the streets even know who he may be. Nonetheless, he's a pretty important man to have around the statehouse. As is said frequently, only a heart-beat—that of the governor—lies between him and the chief executive's chair.

But the lieutenant governor has more to do in his parttime job than to sit around and wait for the governor to die so he can take over. Despite his lack of prominence, he's a pretty big wheel in his own right, particularly when the legislature which makes our laws is in session.

* * *

FOR THE lieutenant governor is the presiding officer of the Ohio senate, although he has the power to vote only to break a tie. His fairness, his honesty, his ability and his knowledge of parliamentary procedure are put to the acid test frequently.

Under an able lieutenant governor, the senate functions smoothly; under a confused or incompetent one the law-making machinery would falter miserably if it did not break down altogether.

For this important and thankless post, Ohio voters on Nov. 7 will have their choice between Democrat George D. Nye of Waverly, the incumbent, and Republican J. Eugene Roberts of Hubbard.

Here are brief biographies of the two men:

George D. Nye, 50, of Waverly, is a lawyer and former judge who is a native of his own Pike County, where the Democrats take their politics seriously. In fact, Pike County has never, in recent history, failed to go Democratic in a statewide election.

Nye, who is head of that potent political machine, is seeking a third term as lieutenant governor. He was first elected in 1944, to serve then, as now, with Governor Lausche. Like Lausche, he lost in 1946, but won reelection in 1948.

Educated in Pike County schools and Ohio State university, he obtained his law degree and in 1922 was elected prosecuting attorney, being reelected in 1924. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in 1928, two years later was elected to the common pleas bench for a short term, and was reelected to a full term in 1932. He resigned as judge in 1937 to resume private practice.

Nye was a delegate to several Democratic national conventions and is a member of the state central committee of his party. He is married and has one daughter.

J. Eugene Roberts, 57, of Hubbard, Trumbull County, is a former state senator and has practiced law in Youngstown and Warren for 30 years.

* * *

BORN IN HUBBARD and educated in public schools, he taught school and worked in the steel mills to further his higher education. He holds degrees from Youngstown college and Kent State university.

A veteran of World War I, he served three two-year terms in the state senate, from 1925 to 1929 and again in 1933-34. He was his party's whip during one term. He has been an unsuccessful candidate for attorney general in 1928 and also for congress-at-large. He is married, has no children.

The pull of gravity on the planet Pluto is exactly half that of earth.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

President Truman's frank admission that the modern world is still riddled with distrust and suspicion and his determination to build up Western strength against aggression underlined in a curious manner his disarmamet speech to the United Nations.

Keen international interest was aroused by his call for a "foolproof" program to banish the threat of war by destroying or controlling every type of weapon, including the atom bomb.

He quoted the Prophet Isaiah, who according to the Old Testament said:

"They shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any-more."

But the far-reaching reservations Mr. Truman was compelled to impose in outlining his idealistic plan recalled the words of a legendary cynic who may or may not have lived around the time of Isaiah.

He simply pointed out that a pruning-hook can inflict a nastier wound than the clean incision of a spear, while plowshares hurled by catapult could be more damaging by far than rocks and stones.

* * *

IN THE LONG and sorry history of disarmament plans, the President's speech was important historically because of his insistence upon ironclad guarantees and the right of constant and unimpeded inspection.

This has been the stumbling-block in all attempts to win Soviet Russia over to the Baruch Plan or other Western proposals for atomic control.

The President insists that all barriers must be let down and complete freedom of information established across international borders.

This, of course, is the kernel of Soviet objections from the beginning—objections which blink the fact that any nation opposing inspection automatically arouses suspicion.

But it was suspicion that the President conceded to be a normal facet of human nature when he placed his stress upon guarantees and the need for policing "continuously and thoroughly."

To put it bluntly, disarmament programs, including highly ambitious ones, failed in the past because of what can be described only as a "doublecross."

Outwardly there was enthusiasm and apparent sincerity. But a rather illuminating case is that of Japan, which received huge League of Nations mandates in the Pacific after World War I sealed them off from the world, and then set about the laborious procedure of converting them into bases whose existence and power became known only with the explosions at Pearl Harbor.

Also there was the scuttling of a vast portion of the U. S. Fleet after World War I. This was supposed to have set an example. Instead, it set off a building race by other powers.

* * *

IT IS EVEN more simple to remember June 25 of this year when the Communist invasion of South Korea found much of the American Navy and Airforce in "mothballs."

There was something almost ironic in the fact Mr. Truman revived the subject of disarmament at a moment when the Western world was being compelled to push forward with a vast undertaking in military defense.

He himself had to stress the determination of the United States and the United Nations to go to war to halt aggression wherever it might occur.

Fund Is Set Aside Here For Disabled Persons Aid

Pickaway County commissioners have set aside $500 in a new fund to start the ball rolling on a program of assistance to permanently and totally disabled persons.

The new program is part of the recently amended Federal Social Security law. It provides for maximum aid grants of $50 a month, $30 of which will be paid by the federal government, $10 by the state and $10 by the county.

Pauline Roese, county relief supervisor, said the program will start here Dec. 1. She added that only a few Pickaway Countians will be eligible.

"Of the total September general relief case load of 107, only about 14 would be eligible for aid under this new program," Miss Roese said.

She explained that eligibility is based on need, just as any other relief program. Age limits for applicants are 18 to 65.

* * *

THEY MUST be residents of Ohio, but not of any particular county.

"Their applications will be examined by a licensed physician, whose report will be forwarded to the State Welfare Department for review by a medical advisory board.

"Results of the review will be returned to the local relief office and the applicant will either be accepted or turned down," Miss Roese said, adding:

"This program follows the same pattern as the Aid for the Blind program."

Each applicant will be contacted by Miss Roese. She explained that mental, epileptic and tubercular cases are not eligible for aid under the new program.

A physical checkup on each person receiving the aid will be made every three months.

Scaffold Snaps; Worker Injured

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26—Walter Rock, 59, one of two Fremont men who narrowly escaped death 90 feet in the air when a rope scaffold on which they were working gave way, is in fair condition today in St. Luke's hospital.

Rock was injured when he tumbled, along with his co-worker, Burl Reidling, 22, ten feet to a two-foot wide catwalk at the 80-foot level of a water tower in suburban Maple Heights last night.

Reidling landed on his feet and grabbed Rock who was knocked unconscious when he fell on his head.

Farm Outlook Parley Expected To Be Difficult

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — The farm outlook conference scheduled for Washington next week is expected to be one of the most difficult in recent years.

The conference, an annual get-together of federal and state farm economists, will attempt to guide farmers throughout the nation on how much of which crops they should plan to grow in 1951 and what the demand and price for their products are likely to be.

Agriculture Department economists have pulled together all currently available information from the various government agencies on what business and general economics of the nation are expected to be next year.

The information, which will be discussed with state extension service economists, includes data on current economic trends and comparisons with other periods.

The trouble is, however, that the government figures and statistics might not come close to what's going to be the economic situation next year.

The various defense planning agencies themselves at this point have no idea of exactly what will be needed by way of industrial cutput or farm production.

You Can't Build A Better Mousetrap!

"They're not the best-looking boarders a man ever had," Hack Turner said one day, "and they've got awful tempers. But I've found it pays to have 'em around."

Hack was talking about a family of barn owls, nesting in his silo this year. Some folks believe those little white-faced screechers kill chickens—and ought to be shot on sight. But Hack disagrees.

"Up at State University they've studied barn owls for years—and never known one to eat a chicken. On the other hand, a daddy owl will clean up around 300 mice a month. Farmers that kill barn owls are throwing away the best mousetraps known to man!"

From where I sit, when someone shows a prejudice against any group of animals or humans—it's usually just based on misunderstanding. For instance, some folks are plumb intolerant about those of us who enjoy an occasional quiet glass of beer. Get to really know us and you're liable to find we're pretty good birds at that!

Scaffold Snaps; Worker Injured

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26—Walter Rock, 59, one of two Fremont men who narrowly escaped death 90 feet in the air when a rope scaffold on which they were working gave way, is in fair condition today in St. Luke's hospital.

Rock was injured when he tumbled, along with his co-worker, Burl Reidling, 22, ten feet to a two-foot wide catwalk at the 80-foot level of a water tower in suburban Maple Heights last night.

Reidling landed on his feet and grabbed Rock who was knocked unconscious when he fell on his head.

Farm Outlook Parley Expected To Be Difficult

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — The farm outlook conference scheduled for Washington next week is expected to be one of the most difficult in recent years.

The conference, an annual get-together of federal and state farm economists, will attempt to guide farmers throughout the nation on how much of which crops they should plan to grow in 1951 and what the demand and price for their products are likely to be.

Agriculture Department economists have pulled together all currently available information from the various government agencies on what business and general economics of the nation are expected to be next year.

The information, which will be discussed with state extension service economists, includes data on current economic trends and comparisons with other periods.

The trouble is, however, that the government figures and statistics might not come close to what's going to be the economic situation next year.

The various defense planning agencies themselves at this point have no idea of exactly what will be needed by way of industrial output or farm production.

You Can't Build A Better Mousetrap!

"They're not the best-looking boarders a man ever had," Hack Turner said one day, "and they've got awful tempers. But I've found it pays to have 'em around."

Hack was talking about a family of barn owls, nesting in his silo this year. Some folks believe those little white-faced screechers kill chickens—and ought to be shot on sight. But Hack disagrees.

"Up at State University they've studied barn owls for years—and never known one to eat a chicken. On the other hand, a daddy owl will clean up around 300 mice a month. Farmers that kill barn owls are throwing away the best mousetraps known to man!"

From where I sit, when someone shows a prejudice against any group of animals or humans—it's usually just based on misunderstanding. For instance, some folks are plumb intolerant about those of us who enjoy an occasional quiet glass of beer. Get to really know us and you're liable to find we're pretty good birds at that!

No fair peeking at the sample prices over on the right till you put yourself to this test:

Look at the handsome honey pictured here—or recall the thousands like it that you've been seeing on the highways—and ask yourself what you think one would cost.

Bear in mind, this is an eight—and a very special eight—with the eager and ever-lively power of a high-compression valve-in-head engine that's a Fireball to boot.

Take stock of its generous expanses of safety plate glass that mean extra visibility—and the sofa-wide comfort of its deep-cushioned seats.

Take our word for it—or check for yourself—it rides like a dream—with coil springs on all four wheels instead of two—with big soft low-pressure tires on Buick's wide rims—and with feather-light handling for all its road-hugging heft.

Remember that such things as air cleaners, oil filters, dual horns, windshield wipers, sun visors and map lights, automatic dome lighting, and a built-in ventilation system all come as part and parcel of every Buick at no extra cost—and likewise that Buick, and Buick alone, offers Dynaflow Drive.*

Then look at the prices and see how they jibe with your idea of what such a car should cost. If you've done any shopping, you'll quickly find out that you can own a Buick at prices that start below what you'd pay for some sixes.

Why not get the exact figures for the body type in the Series that exactly fits your taste and budget—starting now, with a visit to your Buick dealer.

Dairy Herd Tips Given By Experts

'Winter Scours' Said Dangerous

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26—Milk production in many dairy herds is going to be cut back sharply during the coming months by "Winter scours," the American Foundation for Animal Health today warned herd owners.

"When a cow suddenly refuses feed, appears dull, secretes les milk and scours badly, the owner may suspect that the animal has eaten spoiled or frozen food," a foundation bulletin said. It added:

"But if other cows in the herd rapidly develop the same symptoms, the trouble may be Winter scours, a quick-spreading infectious disease.

"Veterinarians have isolated the germ which causes the malady; it is a 'vibrio' organism, related to a germ which sometimes causes abortion in cattle."

Few cows die outright from the disease. But it causes heavy setbacks in milk production, the foundation said. Affected animals usually require a long time to return to full production. Most cases occur during the Fall, Winter and Spring. It declared:

* * *

"CONTROL OF the disease is very difficult, even in the best managed herds. However, if action is taken soon enough, segregation of the first cows to become infected may stop its spread.

"Also highly important is to obtain an early diagnosis of the condition, because Winter scours may be confused with coccidiosis, or with several other intestinal diseases.

"Once diagnosed, several treatments are effective in holding down the harmful effects."

Demo Leader Out For Taft

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26—Alfred E. Benesch, prominent Cleveland Democrat for nearly 40 years, today joined the ranks of the Democrats-for-Taft.

Benesch said he resents the infiltration of the CIO-PAC into the Democratic Party of Ohio. He said:

"I charge that the PAC has sent its Washington and New York operators into this state to work under the guise of Ohio Democrats. It is not Joe Ferguson who is running now, but the CIO-PAC masquerading under his name."

Brewery Sold

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26 — Elmer E. Folmer of Westerville, former president of the Ohio Brewery in Columbus today is the new owner. He bought the brewery for $125,000 yesterday when it was auctioned off by federal court order to satisfy a bankruptcy action.

In 1874 barbed wire makers employed boys to carry wire to the tops of trees and string barbs on a strand which workmen on the ground later clamped in place.

35 House Members To Be Missing

Some Are Retiring; Others Defeated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — At least 35 House members, among them some outstanding congressmen, will be missing from their seats next year regardless of the outcome of the November elections.

Some of them are retiring after many years of service, others met defeat in primary elections, while still a third group aspires for promotion to be senators or governor.

Some have already sought promotion, and have lost.

A survey disclosed that nine senators are also out of the running and will not be back, either through defeat or retirement.

Defeated in primary elections were Sens. Pepper (D) Fla., Taylor (D) Ida., Graham (D) N. C., and Gurney (R) S. D.

The following incumbents did not seek reelection: Downey (D) Calif., Darby (R) Kans., Withers (D) Ky., and Leahy (D) R. I.

Six House members are running for the Senate. They are: Nixon (R) Calif., Douglas (D) Calif., Carroll (D) Colo., Smathers (D) Fla.,. whose election is assured), Monroney (D) Okla., and Chase (R) S. D.

* * *

THREE HOUSE members were defeated in their bids for Senate seats, failing to win their party nominations. They were: White (D) Ida., Sanborn (R) Ida., Kunkel (R) Pa.

Four House members are running for governor—Lodge (R) Conn., Miles (D) N. Mex., Lynch (D) N. Y., and Barrett (R) Wyo. Rep. Engel R) Mich., unsuccessfully sought the GOP gubernatorial nomination in his state.

Six House members failed for renomination — Sadowski (D) Mich., Pfeiffer (D) N. Y., Sims (D) S. C., Hare (D) S. C., Phillips (R) Tenn., and Jennings R) Tenn.

Twenty-nine House members, including 17 Republicans and 12 Democrats, were not candidates for reelection.

They include some of the House's outstanding veterans, among them Hobbs, Peterson, Pace, Michener, Whittington, North, Wadsworth, Plumley and Keefe.

Although the election is still two weeks away, more than 120 members are assured of reelection. They come from one-party Southern states where the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election.

Two House members have already been reelected—Rep. Nelson R Maine and Delegate Bartlett (D) Alaska.

Tax returns show that 38.3 billion cigarets were consumed during August, 1949. This was an increase of 649 million over August, 1948.

Sokolsky's

Obviously, Israel cannot survive merely as a refugee center. It needs and can produce an effective economy that could become the center of a new life in the entire Near Eastern world. This, however, cannot be achieved by dependence upon American charity. It can be achieved by the free investment of private capital in private enterprise. As long as a Socialist government resists private investment or competes with it on a large scale, investments will go elsewhere.

The most powerful organization in Palestine is the Histadruth, the federation of labor unions. It controls all industrial and agricultural employment and simultaneously engages in manufacturing operations. The Histadruth and the Mapai are identical, and Ben-Gurion leads both. Taken together, Israel suffers from a narrowly controlled economic life.

The point must be made, in defense of the situation, that it could not have been otherwise prior to the establishment of Israel as a state. Few private investors cared to go in and the various Zionist organizations established economic activities out of funds raised as charitable contributions, principally in the United States.

While this method served before Israel became a state, it is now a handicap to the development of the country. Socialism cannot serve a tiny nation, surrounded by enemies, whose only hope for survival is to become a great economic center in a world recently freed from colonialism.

Obviously, Israel cannot survive merely as a refugee center. It needs and can produce an effective economy that could become the center of a new life in the entire Near Eastern world. This, however, cannot be achieved by dependence upon American charity. It can be achieved by the free investment of private capital in private enterprise. As long as a Socialist government resists private investment or competes with it on a large scale, investments will go elsewhere.

The most powerful organization in Palestine is the Histadruth, the federation of labor unions. It controls all industrial and agricultural employment and simultaneously engages in manufacturing operations. The Histadruth and the Mapai are identical, and Ben-Gurion leads both. Taken together, Israel suffers from a narrowly controlled economic life.

The point must be made, in defense of the situation, that it could not have been otherwise prior to the establishment of Israel as a state. Few private investors cared to go in and the various Zionist organizations established economic activities out of funds raised as charitable contributions, principally in the United States.

While this method served before Israel became a state, it is now a handicap to the development of the country. Socialism cannot serve a tiny nation, surrounded by enemies, whose only hope for survival is to become a great economic center in a world recently freed from colonialism.

West Says Tiger Cagers To Begin Work On Nov. 6

Although football still holds the major sports spotlight in Circleville, loose wisps of talk about basketball are being bandied about.

Cage Coach Dick West will hold his first basketball recruiting meeting next Thursday and will begin actual practice for the 1950 season Nov. 6.

"This first meeting and practice will be for all boys not playing varsity football," West explained.

However, all three boys who earned varsity cage letters last season are regulars on this year's Tiger grid team.

* * *

THEY ARE Big John Valentine, Don Mancini and Bill Stout, who will report for court duty after Circleville's final football contest at Washington C. H.

"These early practices will be for the boys from last year's reserve basketball team who are graduating into varsity ball this season," West explained.

He added that the practices also are open for all boys who have wanted to play basketball but who have not reported for tryouts.

The early practices have been called by West to whip the 1950 Tiger team into shape for its opening game in early December against Chillicothe, West's alma mater.

Circleville was the only team last year capable of beating the Cavaliers twice as the Tigers ripped through their schedule to win the South Central Ohio League championship.

CHS'ers Seek 4th Victory In Decade Over Greenfield

Circleville Tigers will be out to make its gridiron series more even with Greenfield Thursday when it invades at the McClain battlefield.

Fighting from a scoreless deadlock in 1941, Circleville has lost five of the eight following encounters with the McClainers.

Only during the last two perfect seasons of the CHS teams have the Tigers been able to show any superiority over Greenfield.

In 1948, Circleville won by a margin of 20-7, while waltzing to a 67-6 victory last year with Sandy Hill toting the ball.

Prior to the last two years, Circleville was unable to score more than 13 points in any one game against the traditional foe.

* * *

GOING BACK to 1941, Circleville lost in 1947 by a 28-13 margin; lost in 1946 by 20-6; lost in 1945 by 20-9; lost in 1944 by 27-6; won in 1943 by 8-0; lost in 1942 by 14-0; and the 0-0 tie in 1941.

This year, seeking their fourth victory in 10 years over McClain, the Tigers are favored over the Greenfield aggregation, although the Greenfielders are given the benefit of being an "upset" team.

The McClain earned the title earlier this season when it handed Washington C. H. a 14-12 setback, contrary to prediction.

Both teams will be about evenly matched in depth during the contest, although Circleville will have a minor weight advantage.

The Tigers to date have won five games in six starts while Greenfield has only earned two victories in six starts.

Probable starting lineups for the teams are:

Circleville
LE—Don Mancini.
LT—Bill Gillis or Harold McClarren.
LG—Gene Kerns.
C—Bob Turner.
RG—Lowell Thomas.
RT—John Cockrell.
RE—Dave Coffland.
QB—Jerry Rooney.
LH—Dixie Harris.
RH—Phil Heise.
FB—John Valentine.

Greenfield
LE—George Smith.
LT—Dale Phillips.
LG—David Brizius.
C—Fred Raike.
RG—John Horn.
RT—Charles Harris.
RE—Robert Cockerill.
QB—Lawrence Benner.
LHRalph VanMeter.
LH—Ralph VanMeter.
FB—Delbert Purdin.

Junior Tigers Roar To 13-0 Grid Victory

Circleville's junior Tiger football team swept into its fourth win in five starts this season Wednesday with a 13-0 victory over host Chillicothe Cavalier juniors.

The local juniors posted a score in the first and last quarters of the contest while controlling the ball during the major portion of the game.

First score of the game was tallied by Fullback Paul Hill on a two-yard plunge through the middle after the Tiger juniors had marched downfield.

The local juniors employed the pass and lateral play to good advantage during their drive into Cavalier paydirt.

In the fourth period, Halfback John Wilkes heaved a 30-yard pass into the arms of End Mike Brown, who squirmed and bucked his way for the additional 10 yards into the Chillicothe end zone for the final score.

* * *

WILKES COMPLETED the conversion attempt by run to give the Tiger juniors their final 13-0 victory.

The Wednesday victory was especially relished by Coach Dick West, who was graduated by the Chillicothe school. West's junior team has tallied two victories over his former school this season, while his varsity basketball team last season marked up twin victorie against the Cavalier cagers.

Circleville's junior grid team will end its 1950 season next Wednesday with a contest here against Hillsboro Papooses. Kickoff is slated for about 4 p. m.

Tiger lineup for Wednesday's game follows:

Ends—Mike Brown, Dale Rogers, Don Skinner and Jim Leist.

Tackles—Robin Jones and Jerry Anderson.

Guards — Bob Rader (capt), Clyde Cook and Ralph Anderson.

Centers—Jim Shaffer and Ted Davis.

Backs—Tom Elsea, Walt Heine, Fred Davis, John Wilkes, Dick Weaver, Paul Hill, Ron Bennington and Albert Sabine.

West Says Tiger Cagers To Begin Work On Nov. 6

Although football still holds the major sports spotlight in Circleville, loose wisps of talk about basketball are being bandied about.

Cage Coach Dick West will hold his first basketball recruiting meeting next Thursday and will begin actual practice for the 1950 season Nov. 6.

"This first meeting and practice will be for all boys not playing varsity football," West explained.

However, all three boys who earned varsity cage letters last season are regulars on this year's Tiger grid team.

* * *

THEY ARE Big John Valentine, Don Mancini and Bill Stout, who will report for court duty after Circleville's final football contest at Washington C. H.

"These early practices will be for the boys from last year's reserve basketball team who are graduating into varsity ball this season," West explained.

He added that the practices also are open for all boys who have wanted to play basketball but who have not reported for tryouts.

The early practices have been called by West to whip the 1950 Tiger team into shape for its opening game in early December against Chillicothe, West's alma mater.

Circleville was the only team last year capable of beating the Cavaliers twice as the Tigers ripped through their schedule to win the South Central Ohio League championship.

TIGERS HAVE WEIGHT EDGE

CHS'ers Seek 4th Victory In Decade Over Greenfield

Circleville Tigers will be out to make its gridiron series more even with Greenfield Thursday when it invades at the McClain battlefield.

Fighting from a scoreless deadlock in 1941, Circleville has lost five of the eight following encounters with the McClainers.

Only during the last two perfect seasons of the CHS teams have the Tigers been able to show any superiority over Greenfield.

In 1948, Circleville won by a margin of 20-7, while waltzing to a 67-6 victory last year with Sandy Hill toting the ball.

Prior to the last two years, Circleville was unable to score more than 13 points in any one game against the traditional foe.

* * *

GOING BACK to 1941, Circleville lost in 1947 by a 28-13 margin; lost in 1946 by 20-6; lost in 1945 by 20-9; lost in 1944 by 27-6; won in 1943 by 8-0; lost in 1942 by 14-0; and the 0-0 tie in 1941.

This year, seeking their fourth victory in 10 years over McClain, the Tigers are favored over the Greenfield aggregation, although the Greenfielders are given the benefit of being an "upset" team.

The McClain earned the title earlier this season when it handed Washington C. H. a 14-12 setback, contrary to prediction.

Both teams will be about evenly matched in depth during the contest, although Circleville will have a minor weight advantage.

The Tigers to date have won five games in six starts while Greenfield has only earned two victories in six starts.

Probable starting lineups for the teams are:

Circleville
LE—Don Mancini.
LT—Bill Gillis or Harold McClarren.
LG—Gene Kerns.
C—Bob Turner.
RG—Lowell Thomas.
RT—John Cockrell.
RE—Dave Coffland.
QB—Jerry Rooney.
LH—Dixie Harris.
RH—Phil Heise.
FB—John Valentine.

Greenfield
LE—George Smith.
LT—Dale Phillips.
LG—David Brizius.
C—Fred Raike.
RG—John Horn.
RT—Charles Harris.
RE—Robert Cockerill.
QB—Lawrence Benner.
LHRalph VanMeter.
LH—Ralph VanMeter.
FB—Delbert Purdin.

Junior Tigers Roar To 13-0 Grid Victory

Circleville's junior Tiger football team swept into its fourth win in five starts this season Wednesday with a 13-0 victory over host Chillicothe Cavalier juniors.

The local juniors posted a score in the first and last quarters of the contest while controlling the ball during the major portion of the game.

First score of the game was tallied by Fullback Paul Hill on a two-yard plunge through the middle after the Tiger juniors had marched downfield.

The local juniors employed the pass and lateral play to good advantage during their drive into Cavalier paydirt.

In the fourth period, Halfback John Wilkes heaved a 30-yard pass into the arms of End Mike Brown, who squirmed and bucked his way for the additional 10 yards into the Chillicothe end zone for the final score.

* * *

WILKES COMPLETED the conversion attempt by run to give the Tiger juniors their final 13-0 victory.

The Wednesday victory was especially relished by Coach Dick West, who was graduated by the Chillicothe school. West's junior team has tallied two victories over his former school this season, while his varsity basketball team last season marked up twin victorie against the Cavalier cagers.

Circleville's junior grid team will end its 1950 season next Wednesday with a contest here against Hillsboro Papooses. Kickoff is slated for about 4 p. m.

Tiger lineup for Wednesday's game follows:

Ends—Mike Brown, Dale Rogers, Don Skinner and Jim Leist.

Tackles—Robin Jones and Jerry Anderson.

Guards — Bob Rader (capt), Clyde Cook and Ralph Anderson.

Centers—Jim Shaffer and Ted Davis.

Backs—Tom Elsea, Walt Heine, Fred Davis, John Wilkes, Dick Weaver, Paul Hill, Ron Bennington and Albert Sabine.
